“A PROUD INDIAN MAN, INDEED”

My dad walked in this world from 1908 to 2010. Now he is home, a serene place that is his inheritance promised to him by the Creator. Our dad was a man of truth that loved all mankind. He left behind a legacy that will live still (compassion, love, truth and empathy). He desired to make this world a better place for our people and to that goal he labored for 102 years of his life. His work is finished now. His desire for us would be to help make this world a better place for all to live and enjoy. Dad loved his Native American culture and would be pleased that we are making efforts to preserve it by unity and one accord. He saw his vision and prayers being manifest. We hope to continue to fulfill the vision of our Elders; it is a good one that will ensure our survival in the future.

In memory of our Dad, our Friend, our Mentor, our Father, we love and miss you daddy.
