COLLABORATION GUIDE

This guide is intended for media specialists who want to use LEARN NC's resources as a basis for collaborating with teachers. If you have suggestions or reference questions, please contact Kim Campbell at kcampbell@learnnc.org.

FOR THIS AUDIENCE...

TRY THIS STRATEGY

Teachers who don't visit the media center

Use the EMAIL THIS option under "tools" on an article, website record, or lesson plan. Include an invitation to the media center and an offer to help with instruction.

Classes that visit the media center only for book check-out

Locate LESSON PLANS relevant to novel studies and research projects. Use the PRINTER-FRIENDLY VERSION and highlight the section you will cover in the media center.

Teachers in second languages, arts, and other disciplines trying to integrate core grade-level content in their teaching

Use the SEARCH page to locate interdisciplinary materials. Specify a language or media type.

Teachers new to North Carolina or new to the classroom (and their mentors)

Print NEW TEACHER SUPPORT articles and show them the printable STANDARD COURSE OF STUDY.

Teachers who do the same assignment over and over every year

Use BEST OF THE WEB to create a pathfinder of new, engaging online resources on the topic.

Students looking for websites they can use on their own

Use FOR STUDENTS – grade-specific media centers with relevant, developmentally-appropriate websites.

Students working on research assignments

Use the RESEARCH GUIDES and REFERENCE sections in FOR STUDENTS.

Students, teachers and parents working at home.

Use LEARN NC to populate your web page with the best resources. Include links to FOR STUDENTS and NC WiseOwl.
